Credit union to help people hit by crunch

A NEW financial organisation is being set up to help people who now have poor credit ratings as a result of the recession.

A credit union was due to open in Haverhill today thanks to Havebury Housing Partnership and St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

Both organisations have committed £5,000 to fund the part-time salary of a credit union co-ordinator, who will be based at the town's volunteer centre in the council's offices.

The scheme was to be officially launched by Haverhill's mayor, Cllr Les Ager.

The credit union is expected to help those on low incomes who are having difficulty opening an account with a high street bank or getting a debit or credit card, and who want to save or budget regularly. It could help those who want to avoid the dangerously high interest rates of loan sharks.

Jez Robbins, of Havebury, said: "Credit unions are well established across the country and because we will be under the umbrella of the well-established Ipswich and Suffolk Credit Union the advice and guidance on all the procedures will be readily available."

Cllr Sara Mildmay-White, portfolio holder for community at the borough council, said: "Many local residents are facing difficult economic circumstances and having the credit union in Haverhill offers an alternative to the high-interest loan companies to which many people find themselves turning to, as well as offering a safe place to save.

"The council is pleased to be able to support this initiative."

Loans are charged at various rates depending on how long people have paid into the credit union, from 12.7% APR to 26.8% APR on the declining balance.

Ipswich and Suffolk Credit Union's (ISCU) typical rate is 19.6% APR. At that rate, a loan of £400 paid back over one year at £8.50 per week would cost about £36.68 in interest. To qualify for a loan, members pay into ISCU for at least 13 weeks.

Havebury and the council have already worked together on the Bury St Edmunds branch of the credit union, where 103 people have already opened an account.

Small change nets big result

RESIDENTS of William Blake Court sheltered housing scheme in Haverhill have handed over £100 to our £40,000 St Nicholas Hospice At Home Appeal. They decided to make Hospice At Home their annual charity after reading about the appeal in the Weekly News.

Other fundraising activities coming up include an advanced premiere screening of smash-hit Hollywood blockbuster Marley & Me, starring Owen Wilson and Jennifer Aniston, on Friday, February 27 at Haverhill Cineworld. See the film two weeks before anyone else for just £7 and help boost our appeal.

■ To find out more about the donation from William Blake Court, and the Marley & Me screening, see Page 2.

■ THANKS

Small change adds up to big donation

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

RESIDENTS of a sheltered housing scheme are among the latest to support our Hospice at Home Appeal.

People living at Havebury Housing's William Blake Court in Cambridge Close, Haverhill, donated their small change collection to the appeal.

More than £100 was handed over to Ian Norris, of St Nicholas Hospice Care, by the residents, whose ages range from 60 to 94.

Carol Ross, scheme manager, said: "The residents have a pot where they put their small change throughout the year and every year they chose a different charity."

"This year they decided to support the hospice."

Come and meet Marley

THE next major fundraiser for the £40,000 appeal is on Friday, February 27, when new hit family movie Marley & Me will be premiered at Cineworld Haverhill.

The film, starring big names Jennifer Aniston and Owen Wilson, is being screened two weeks before it goes on general release.

All proceeds from ticket sales for the screening at 8pm will go straight to our appeal. Tickets are £7 for adults and children and everyone who attends the screening will get a special goody bag on the night.

To book call the box office on 0871 2002000.

Paul Wilden, the general manager of Cineworld Haverhill, said: "The hospice provides an amazing service for the people of Haverhill."

"This is our little way to help give something back to both them and the community."

Marley & Me (PG) is a heartwarming and heartbreaking tale about "the world's worst dog", based on John Grogan's best-selling memoir.

John (Owen Wilson) and Jenny Grogan (Jennifer Aniston) are smitten newlyweds working for rival newspapers in West Palm Beach, Florida.

When the topic of children is raised, John confesses to his friend Sebastian (Eric Dane) that he might not be prepared for their arrival, so Sebastian suggests buying Jenny a puppy instead. And along comes Marley, a cute yellow Labrador plucked from an equally adorable litter.

Problem is, puppies turn into dogs, and soon Marley is transforming the Grogan household into a war zone as he falls obedience classes, chews the sofa, eats expensive jewellery, rifles through the dustbins, steals the Thanksgiving turkey and drinks the toilet water – among other misdemeanours. But as the Grogans change jobs, move houses and welcome new arrivals into the world, Marley is permanently by their side, bringing out the best in them.

Thanks to the generosity of readers, businesses and other local organisations, the appeal has already topped £30,000.

The cash will help pay for patients to be cared for in their own homes, rather than in the hospice in Bury St Edmunds.

WEEKLY NEWS

How can you help us hit the target?

WE CANNOT reach our target without your help – so the Weekly News wants to hear from anyone who is organising fund-raising discos, barbecues, dances or other events to boost the hospice appeal.

Tell us what you are planning and we will help publicise your event to make sure it is a success and raises as much money as possible.

If you already have an event organised, why not pledge all or part of the proceeds to the appeal and benefit from the extra publicity to help a really good cause.

A special bank account has been set up at Barclay's Bank. Cash or cheques can be paid in directly to the St Nicholas Hospice at Home Appeal, sort code 201612, account number 80981842.

An on-line donations page has also been created at www.justgiving.com/haverhillweeklynews, which also gives details of how to donate by text, and you can donate by phone on (01284) 715582, at the hospice shop in High Street, Haverhill, or the Weekly News office in Queen Street, Haverhill.

Brazilian babe is a hit CROWDS flocked to Linton Zoo this week where half-term festivities were top of the bill.

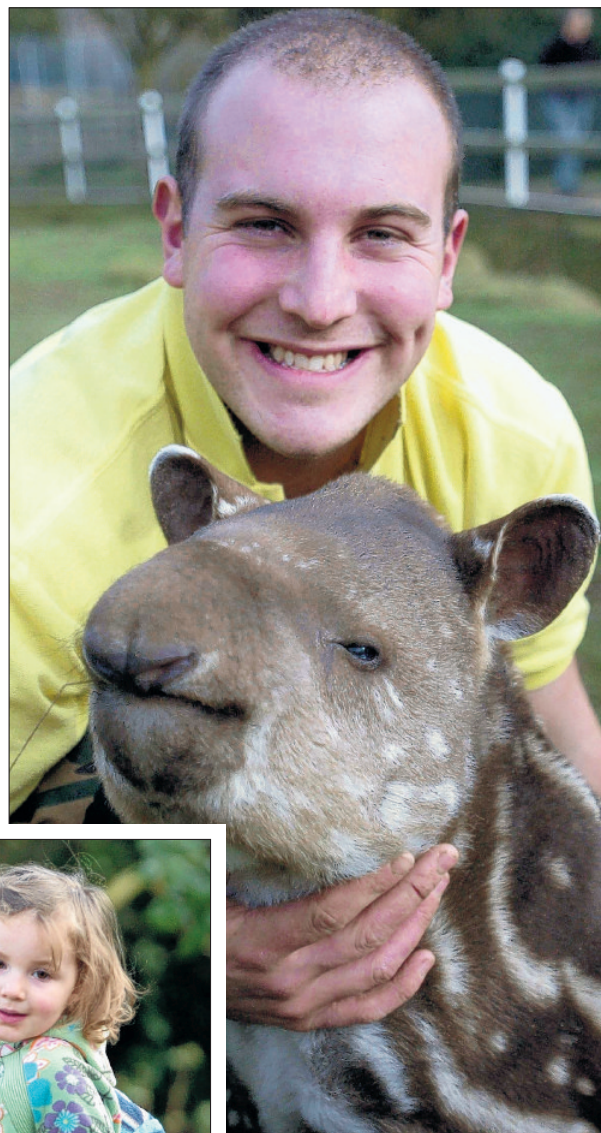

One of the newest additions to the zoo's menagerie, Yarah, the baby Tapir, was a hot favourite among families who visited the busy attraction on Monday.

A spokesman for the zoo said: "Yarah, our Brazilian tapir, is becoming very mischievous and keeps the crowds entertained as she bounds around with endless energy."

"But she isn't the only attraction here this week. Our experience days are continuing to prove very popular with people of all ages."

"Keeper's Little Helper, designed for children aged five to eight, is new for this year and gives young children a chance to get hands-on experience with a variety of small zoo animals."

For more information about the zoo and the activities available go to www.lintonzoo.com

Playtime as savings go to children's fun zone

A NEW £630,000 play area will be built in Haverhill – thanks to savings made in the redevelopment of Haverhill Leisure Centre.

The extra funding has become available after a £5.2 million project to modernise the aging centre came in under budget.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council has earmarked £500,000 for the play area work, while Abbeycroft Leisure will provide the remaining £130,000.

The new facilities will replace the existing Kidzone play area on the first floor of the building in Ehringshausen Way.

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

They are designed for children aged from 18 months to 12 years old and will feature ball pools, cargo nets, slides and a soft play area. Two separate rooms will also be created to hire for birthday parties or meetings, along with a new café.

The finished play area and café will be unveiled in summer when the rest of the refurbished building opens. A new reception, changing areas, pool viewing area, dance room and fitness suite are being provided at the centre.

Cllr Lynsey Alexander, portfolio holder for culture and sport at the borough council, said: "This extra investment once again underlines our commitment to developing new and exciting leisure opportunities which people of all ages can enjoy."

"The new play area will be significantly bigger than the previous facilities, and will include seating areas for parents so they can relax over a cup of coffee while their children have fun with their friends."

"Once complete, the newly refurbished centre will be a valuable addition to leisure provision in Haverhill, providing people living in the area with modern, first class facilities for the future."

Warren Smyth, chief executive of Abbeycroft Leisure, said: "The new play area is a valuable addition to the huge range of services which will be on offer once we reopen the refurbished centre in July."

"We hope our customers will really appreciate the huge changes which have taken place and thoroughly enjoy using the new facilities."

Go west, public tells planners

THE latest consultations about the future development of Haverhill has shown public support for expansion to the west of the town.

A site of around 350 acres close to the A1307 has been identified as the preferred choice by the majority of people who responded to St Edmundsbury Borough Council's nine-week consultation on its core strategy as part of the local development framework (LDF).

The borough is set to grow with 8,000 more new homes by 2031 and 40 per cent – 3,200 – are set to be built in Haverhill, with the same number planned for Bury St Edmunds.

The remaining 1,600 are likely to be built in villages.

The latest consultation asked for views on three potential development sites in Haverhill, which lie to the north, west and north-eastern edges of the town.

The majority of those who responded backed the western side of town as their preferred choice.

The least popular location was 200 acres to the north of the town near Withersfield Road.

A site of around 400 acres beyond Chalkstone Way and Samuel Ward Upper School attracted a split reaction with 12 responses in support and 15 objecting.

Cllr Terry Clements, portfolio holder for transport and planning, said: "We would like to thank everyone who gave their time to feedback their views about how the borough should develop in the future."

"We were extremely pleased with the number of responses we received and will look carefully at all of these views when we draw up our final proposals for the future shape of the borough later in the spring."

"This vitally important piece of work is helping us to plan for the needs of the current and next generations, so it is essential we get it right."

"Although there will still be challenges to overcome, we are determined to make sure the final plan provides the best possible solutions for the whole of the borough."

There were more than 3,000 responses to the consultation from more than 400 people and organisations.

A final strategy for further consultation is due to be drawn up after Easter.

Olden days on film

RARE photos of old Haverhill can be seen as part of a film screening at next week's meeting of Haverhill and District Local History Group.

The film was made by the late Brian Pannell, a native of Haverhill, who was a postcard collector and former history group member. He narrated the film which takes the viewer on a "virtual walk" around Haverhill of the past.

The screening is on Wednesday in the Haverhill Arts Centre studio at 7.30pm. Admission is free to members and £2 for visitors.

Clot crusade fights 'health emergency'

A NATIONAL campaign to cut the number of deaths from blood clots has been launched in Cambridge.

Stop the Clot is urging people admitted to hospital to ask a doctor or nurse for a blood clot risk assessment.

AntiCoagulation Europe, the charity behind the campaign says around 32,000 people die each year as a result of blood clots acquired in UK hospitals – more than from breast cancer, Aids and road traffic collisions combined.

Eve Knight, its chief executive, said: "It really is a public health emergency. What the campaign is trying to do is save lives."

County snooker player Joe Perry helped launch the campaign at WT's Snooker Club.

It will first target the East of England and the East Midlands, before moving on to the rest of the UK.

Hospitals such as Addenbrooke's, which is committed to giving risk assessments, are fully behind it.

BY John Morgan

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Mrs Knight, who has herself suffered from deep vein thrombosis, a blood clot in the leg or thigh, and pulmonary embolisms, which occur when a clot blocks the supply of blood to the lungs, said: "I am lucky I am alive. And it's not just of having it and getting over it – you suffer from all sorts of problems that can disrupt your life."

The charity estimates that 301 lives could be saved in Cambridgeshire each year.

Mrs Knight said: "One of the most important elements of the campaign is the pledge for the public to tell at least one other person about the risk of getting hospital-acquired blood clots and how to prevent it."

People can back the campaign at www.stoptheclot.com/pledge Information booklets are also available on the website www.stoptheclot.com and at local hospitals, or on 0800 694 6444.

CHILDREN at a pre-school nursery met a member of their local police Safer Neighbourhood team.

Pc Patricia Sinclair, a member of the St Edmundsbury Rural South team, visited the children at Home from Home Childcare in Withersfield.

The aim of the visit was to familiarise the children with the duties of the local police and let them have a "close up" look at a police officer.

Pc Sinclair showed the children some of the equipment and uniform she uses during her duties.

All the children also had a chance to try on some of the police headgear and protective clothing. Lucy Huelin, the nursery manager, said: "I'm delighted the police were able to arrange such a visit as it is important for children, even at such a young age, to appreciate the important role the police officer has to play in society."

A visit has also been scheduled next Monday at Home from Home's day nursery in Haverhill.

Work to start on next phase of medical centre

NEW temporary medical "pods" have finally landed in Haverhill. The facilities are set to be opened this spring and will offer GP services from 8am to 8pm, seven days a week. Martin Royal, director of business development and external relations at NHS

Suffolk, the county's primary care trust, said: "We're very pleased with progress so far and look forward to seeing the centre being prepared for use. "I'd like to say thank you to local residents who have been very patient and have supported us in getting to this stage." Once the centre, behind the Rose and Crown pub in Withersfield Road, is ready for use it will be known as The Practice Crown Health Centre and offer usual GP services and other facilities, including minor injury clinics and blood testing, along with sessions for substance and alcohol misuse, weight management, quitting smoking, sexual health, contraceptives and childhood obesity. The pods will cater for both registered and non-registered patients, offering appointments alongside a walk-in service for people in Haverhill and the surrounding areas. The site will be run by a group of GPs alongside the town's three existing family doctor practices. A search for a permanent base for the centre is now under way.

Arrest over assault

A MAN has been arrested following an assault which left another man in hospital with head injuries. The assault happened in High Street, Haverhill, between 9.50pm and 10pm on Friday, January 30. The victim, a man in his 50s, was taken to Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge for treatment.

A 44-year-old man from Haverhill has been arrested on suspicion of assault and has been released on bail, to return to Bury St Edmunds Police Station on March 5.

Anyone with information about the incident should call Pc Stuart Cirket at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100.

Police to use new power to ban yobs

NEW police powers could be used to ban drunken yobs from town centres.

Police in west Suffolk will be using a new tactic from tomorrow to stop people causing trouble around town centre pubs and clubs in Haverhill, Newmarket and Mildenhall.

Officers will be using powers under Section 27 of the Violent Crime Reduction Act 2006 to serve a "direction to leave" notice on anyone they feel may cause alcohol-related violence.

The move is a "zero tolerance" power and no actual offence needs to have been committed. The person can be banned from a venue or even the whole town for up to 48 hours, and if they refuse to leave the area or return during this time they can be arrested.

Superintendent David Skevington, operations manager for Suffolk police's western area,

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@
haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

said: "I am concerned that the levels of violence in a public place related to alcohol or drug consumption have risen in some parts of west Suffolk, and whilst in other areas there has been a reduction, this could still be improved upon.

"We have put additional officers into hotspot areas, to offer reassurance and to issue fixed penalty notices to stop trouble escalating - but now we have another tactic to allow officers to get tough on the minority of people who behave anti-socially and could go on to commit violent crime."

Inspector Sally Gallant, who is responsible for the introduction of the scheme, said: "We want to use these powers to nip trouble in the bud early in the evening. The aim is not to spoil people's nights out, but if anyone comes to any of west Suffolk's town centres intent on causing trouble they will be asked to leave and not to return for up to 48 hours.

"Police across the west will be using these powers to get rid of trouble makers from town centres and make them safer for law-abiding people."

The police also have the power to photograph anyone issued with a Section 27 notice.

Cllr Chris Turner, Newmarket's mayor, said he was concerned about the civil liberties aspect of the move.

But he added: "I can see why the police are doing it. There are obviously some cases in Newmarket where people potentially flout the law. Knowing some of the police officers in Newmarket, I'm sure they would not abuse this power and would only use it as a last resort."

Power cable fault blacks out town centre

SEVERAL thousand homes and businesses in Haverhill town centre lost their power supply on Sunday night.

A spokeswoman for EDF Energy Networks said the fault occurred on a high voltage underground cable.

She said: "The fault occurred at 7.06pm and the majority of customers had their power restored within 10 minutes.

"EDF Energy Networks engineers worked as swiftly and safely as possible to restore supplies to the remaining customers affected, in stages. Power was restored to the final 263 customers affected at 10.42pm. We would like to apologise to all those affected."

Our council workers showed true grit

Sir, We have written this letter in answer to some of the comments made by former town councillor Chris Cullum (Council 'let us down' - Weekly News, February 12). Firstly, how has Suffolk County Council (SCC) let you down so badly? It's easy to criticise others when they are doing their very best in these terrible conditions. You could probably watch the snow from behind closed doors in a very warm room.

These men have been called out all hours of the day and night to grit the roads. They also have to do their normal jobs for SCC during the day. Who gritted the roads for these men at 1am and 2am in the morning to enable them to get to the depot at Depden and sometimes as far as Mildenhall to collect the gritters to do the roads for everyone else. These men never moaned about the conditions but carried on the best they could.

And, with grit costing over £100 per ton - and most gritters holding 10 tones per trip with several gritters out at a time, where does Chris Cullum think the never ending supply of money and grit comes from?

Also on the matter of road closures and diversions, although SCC puts the actual diversion signs in place it was under directions from Haverhill police - so direct your anger at them. Also a lot of criticism has been made because paths are not gritted. They have had enough to do concentrating on keeping the roads clear.

But why can't people doing community service be given a shovel and asked to clear paths outside schools, doctors' surgeries, etc, and spread a little grit.

Some hardworking people out of work through no fault of their own might also like the chance to earn some extra money.

The town council is far from perfect. Did it not once occur to them that instead of pulling down the Hovis mill to make way for a Tesco that we did not need, the old building that survived the war could have been made into several decent flats to help ease the desperate housing situation in Haverhill or even a day hospital.

Workers on SCC are not looking for praise or even the odd thanks as they are doing their job to the best of their ability, like most other working people.

Less criticism would however be nice.

From wives, partners and families of SCC workers - who haven't seen much of them lately.

Sir, Could I make an appeal through your letters page for a lost item.

I travelled back from Cambridge to Haverhill on the 5.15pm no. X13 bus on Wednesday, February 11, and inadvertently left my Sony digital camera on board the bus. I have made contact with Stagecoach travel and as yet it has not been handed in.

Could the person that has found it please hand it in to Stagecoach (01223 423578) or the Haverhill Police Station. Thank you in anticipation.

MP's cards of protest

A CAMPAIGN calling for more consideration to be given to alternative plans for a council reorganisation have been handed in to a government official.

Richard Spring, MP for the Newmarket, Mildenhall and Haverhill areas, handed in 200 postcards to Steve Evison, an official at the Department of Communities and Local Government.

It is part of a campaign by Forest Heath District Council, St Edmundsbury Borough Council and Waveney District Council to have their proposals for a Suffolk-wide council shake-up to be considered.

Last week Hazel Blears, the Secretary of State for communities and local government, announced that recommendations for the changes had been delayed until July.

The Boundary Committee had been due to submit its report last Friday.

The councils have been pressing for their proposals for three new unitary councils – one for west Suffolk, one for the east and one for the Ipswich and Felixstowe areas – to be considered.

Mr Spring said: "While it is right that the Boundary Committee should have more time to consider the implications of unitary authorities, it is essential that the Boundary Committee also considers a no-change solution. These postcards show the Secretary of State how badly the Boundary Committee has got the Suffolk review wrong so far and I hope that she will instruct the Boundary Committee to look specifically at an Ipswich/East/West arrangement, but only if the no-change solution is rejected.

"The Government's tinkering with local government structures is in nobody's interest. It is a case of change for change sake."

He said the review had already cost taxpayers nearly £219,000 since March of last year.

Seat belt campaign

MOTORISTS who do not wear seat belts are being targeted in a police campaign.

Suffolk police started a week of "high visibility" patrols on Monday.

Drivers and passengers travelling without putting their seat belts on face a fixed penalty fine or a court summons.

Police were also checking that children are using the appropriate restraints and seats.

A campaign between September and the end of December last year resulted in 1,711 motorists being caught breaking the seat belt laws.

Chief Insp Mike Bacon, from Suffolk's roads policing unit, said: "I do find it difficult to understand why people don't wear their seatbelt. It's a simple and quick task and yet people continue to risk their lives and the lives of others by not wearing them."

Council consults on 'special place'

CEMETERY visitors will be asked to help shape the future of the area.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council is asking for views on the management and maintenance of Haverhill Cemetery and is holding two special information days.

The cemetery has been at the centre of complaints about anti-social behaviour and suggestions about improved fencing as well as other measures have been under discussion for more than a year.

The open days, which are the first of their kind to be held by the borough council, will take place in the Cemetery Chapel in Withersfield Road on Saturday and Thursday, February 26.

Everyone who visits the cemetery, from bereaved families, relatives and friends to those who use the grounds for walking, is invited to attend between 10am and 2pm and fill in a questionnaire.

The survey will ask for views on the current service offered at the 140-year cemetery, along with possible changes in the future.

Subjects such as security, memorials and grounds maintenance will all be covered, as well as whether vehicles and dogs should be allowed to access the site.

Cllr Lynsey Alexander, portfolio holder for culture and sport at St Edmundsbury Borough Council, said: "Haverhill Cemetery is a special place for contemplation and remembrance which is close to the hearts of many people in the borough.

"As such, making sure the service we provide is sensitive, caring and professional – both now and into the future – is of vital importance.

"We want to make sure the service we offer at our cemeteries maintains its community focus and flexibility, meeting the needs of the bereaved in a caring and dignified manner.

"We hope that by running two events, as many people as possible will be able to come along and share their views with us on the future of this important site.

"Anyone is welcome – from those who visit loved ones regularly to others who may occasionally walk through the cemetery."

A draft cemeteries strategy, drawn up in consultation with funeral directors, stone masons and representatives of the clergy, was discussed by the council's cabinet at a meeting last Wednesday.

Feedback from the information events will be used to shape the final version of the document, which is due for completion by late March.

Gritters' wives slam councillor

WIVES and partners of gritter-lorry drivers have rallied to their defence following criticism by a former town councillor.

Chris Cullum complained that the county council had not gritted roads and that drivers were sent on a "merry-go-round" last week when floods combined with black ice led to roads chaos in the Haverhill area.

He said: "I'm sorry to say the council is letting down the people of Haverhill."

But now the families of Suffolk County Council (SCC) road workers have said they have been working round the clock to keep the roads clear.

They said: "These men have been called out – all hours of the day and night to grit the roads. They also had to do their normal job for SCC during the day."

"Who gritted the roads for these men at 1am and 2am to enable them to get to the depot at Depden and sometimes as far as Mildenhall to collect the gritters? These men never moaned about the conditions but carried on the best they could."

The wives added, in a letter to the Weekly News, that the diversions around the town were the responsibility of the police – not the county council.

They said that it was wrong to level criticism about paths not being gritted at the county council workers.

They said that offenders on community service and the unemployed could have been given the job to clear the paths of snow and ice.

"Workers on SCC are not looking for praise or even the odd thanks as they are doing their jobs to the best of their ability, like most other working people. Less criticism would, however, be nice."

Youth remains in hospital

A TEENAGE boy is still in a critical condition in hospital a week after suffering serious head injuries in a road crash near Haverhill.

The 16-year-old has been in Addenbrooke's since Tuesday, February 12, when a car in which he was travelling was in collision with another car.

The crash happened on the Haverhill by-pass near the A1017/A1307 roundabout leading to the Clements Estate.

The female drivers of the two cars, a red Fiat Panda and a silver-coloured Ford Fiesta, escaped with minor injuries.

Police said this week that the youth's condition remained critical and life-threatening but doctors felt he was making progress.

Use windows to reflect your taste

■ WINDOW STYLE... the way you dress your windows can transform the mood of a room.

WITH the ongoing drop in the property market homeowners who were planning on moving in 2009 are now staying put and looking for ways to revamp their home instead.

The way you dress your windows can transform the mood of a room so think of them as a blank canvas which you can adapt to suit your room's style. Thanks to the variety of window treatments now available, it's easy for them to reflect your individual taste.

Julia Goodwin, editor of House Beautiful, says giving your windows some TLC can make a dramatic difference to the overall look and feel of your home.

She says that minimal window dressing is waning as we yearn for more luxury, comfort and decoration in our interiors.

"Curtains are enjoying a renaissance – their insulating properties combined with a look of opulence add much needed warmth and cheer in these days of austerity."

Gina Moore, author of Window Style – a complete, beautifully illustrated practical guide to window treatments – agrees that it's impossible to overestimate the impact of windows on a room's style, mood and atmosphere.

Decisions about which window treatment to choose should be based on practical as well as visual considerations.

WINNING WINDOW TIPS
When styling a window it's essential to consider its shape, size, position and aspect.

Moore says: "The treatment you choose should suit the proportions and design of the window – so stand back and study your window closely so you're sure the treatment you want will fit and be practical before you go out and shop."

Designer Karen Howes, founder of This Designs, reveals her insider secrets for well-dressed windows.

■ Be aware of what you are framing! Curtains draw your eye to the window so if the view outside isn't pretty, think about disguising it by hanging sheer fabric curtains, like voiles, to allow light in but screen out the landscape," she says.

■ The golden rule is "keep curtains simple but beautifully made", and always floor length – never window-sill length.

■ A DRAMATIC DIFFERENCE... using light creates atmosphere.

■ Opt for expensive fabrics, but in smaller quantities – such as in a broad trim along the bottom of the curtain. Then use the same material used for cushion covers so the scheme ties together.

Windows drilled

MORE than £500 damage was caused by a burglar who drilled window and door frames to break into a house.

Nothing was stolen from the house in Church Street, Withersfield.

Anyone with information about the incident which happened between 7pm on Sunday and 6.30am on Monday should call Det Con Paul Gant at Haverhill CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Doors rammed

DOORS of a shed at an industrial unit were damaged when they were rammed by a large saloon car.

The wooden 6ft doors of the shed in Sturmer Road, Haverhill, needed repairs costing £1,000 after the incident which happened between 2pm on Saturday and 7am on Monday.

Nothing was stolen in the incident which was filmed by CCTV cameras.

Anyone with information should call Pc Cheryl Claydon at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Vandals burst tyre

VANDALS punctured a tyre of a red Ford Galaxy in a parking bay at Aragon Road, Haverhill.

Anyone with information about the incident, which happened between 12.30am and 8.45am on Wednesday, February 11, should call Pc Stuart Cirket at Haverhill police (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

'Bored' forger's Monopoly claim

SHOCKED police officers discovered "highly realistic" fake bank notes when they visited a man's home about a different matter.

Ricky Stuart, 44, had turned out the notes at his home in Haverhill using his home computer and a bottle of nail varnish, a court heard.

Police officers found 17 notes, in denominations of £5, £10 and £20, at Stuart's Arundel Walk home in June of last year. They also found a number of incomplete notes.

Michael Crimp, prosecuting at Ipswich Crown Court, said Stuart told the officers: "It's only Monopoly money. If you think it's real you try and use it."

But Mr Crimp said the officers felt the notes were "highly realistic" although some had the same serial number.

Silver nail varnish had been used to create the effect of the security hologram and metallic strip running through the notes.

Stuart told the police he had produced the notes to use in card games and had no intention of trying to pass them off as genuine.

But he admitted a charge of producing a counterfeit note and was given a six-month jail sentence suspended for two years.

Judge Peter Thompson told Stuart: "The seriousness of this offence is one which you do not seem to realise. Undermining the currency of a nation is a very serious offence."

Stuart was also ordered to do 150 hours unpaid community work and remain under the supervision of the probation service for 12 months as well as participating in an offending behaviour programme.

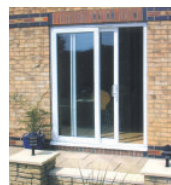

The judge ordered that his computer, scanner and printer should be destroyed as well as the fake notes.

David Pickersgill, defence barrister, said that Stuart, who is currently awaiting a heart bypass operation, had been unemployed and bored at the time he made the fake notes.

He said Stuart now wished he had never made the notes.

Mr Pickersgill said: "He was seeing how far he could go."

TV look-back at happy campers

A COMPANY that was once a town's largest employer will be featured in a television programme charting the rise in popularity of caravans in the 1960s. Newmarket-based CI, Caravans International, was one of the biggest manufacturers at the height of the caravan boom although the business closed completely about 20 years ago after going through a number of changes of ownership. Fiona Alper, pictured right, whose late husband Sam Alper was the company's founder, was interviewed for the BBC4 programme Caravans - A British Love Affair which is to be screened on Wednesday, February 25, at 9pm. Mr Alper, who died in 2002 aged 78, helped to bring caravans to the masses with the best-selling Sprite model which sold for less than £200. He later bought Chilford Hall, near Linton, where Mrs Alper still lives.

Man 'used cannabis to come off alcohol'

A MAN used the drug cannabis to help tackle his alcohol addiction, a court heard.

Police with a warrant raided Andrew Nicholson's home at Snowdon Court, Haverhill. He was in the bathroom but he called to his partner to show the police his "stash" of herbal cannabis and cannabis resin which was in a margarine tub.

Nicholson, 48, admitted illegal possession of cannabis and was given a conditional discharge for 12 months by magistrates at Bury St Edmunds. He was also ordered to pay £40 court costs.

Emma Lister, prosecuting, said police with a search warrant raided Nicholson's home at 8.30am on January 23.

He told them the drug was for personal use and helped him with his withdrawal from alcohol addiction.

The court heard he had a number of previous convictions for drug offences and was about to complete a community order of 140 hours of unpaid work imposed by a court in August of last year.

Claire Lockwood, defence solicitor, said Nicholson had co-operated with the police and said he used the drug to help him to sleep.

She said he would now refer himself to a drug advisory service.

Schools shake-up architect to leave post

THE council chief behind the reorganisation of local schools is moving on.

Rosalind Turner, Suffolk County Council's director for children and young people, has been appointed to the same post with Kent County Council.

She has been a key figure in the reorganisation of education, which involves the closure of middle schools in the county.

'Job freeze' for hardy recruits

NOT many chefs and plumbers get the chance to work in the midst of "sensational" frozen mountains and towering icebergs in a land populated by penguins and whales.

But the British Antarctic Survey (BAS), based on Madingley Road, in Cambridge, is offering just that with the launch this week of a recruitment campaign to sign up carpenters, electricians, plant technicians, plumbers and chefs to work at its research stations in the Antarctic.

Successful applicants will earn annual salaries starting at £23,000, with travel, accommodation, clothing and food provided.

The workers will support research into climate change and biodiversity by ensuring the isolated stations run smoothly.

Linda Capper, of the BAS, believes the posts offer unbeatable job satisfaction.

She said: "The thing that is most striking is the stunning scenery.

"You feel very small. You find yourself in this gigantic landscape where the horizon is a long way off and you can see icebergs the size of cathedrals. There are penguins and seals – it is just sensational."

The BAS has five research stations. Most of the jobs on offer are at the Rothera and Halley stations.

A recent advert for the "best job in the world" – looking after a tropical island off the coast of Queensland, Australia – was deluged by more than 10,000 applications.

Although temperatures in Antarctica can drop as low as -30C, Mrs Capper thinks the BAS posts are just as attractive.

She said: "You get 24-hour daylight in summer and a spectacular aurora in winter.

"You also get a very nice community of people who might not normally find themselves working alongside each other – chefs working with physicists and plumbers working with biologists.

"Everybody gets a chance to find out about other people's jobs."

Tony McLaughlan, an electrician working at the Rothera station, said: "It is really amazing being here. I never imagined that an ordinary bloke like me could end up working in Antarctica."

Adverts will appear in The Sun, Farmers Weekly and Earth Mover.

Contracts run from four to 18 months and are flexible.

Potential jobseekers can also apply online at www.antarctica.ac.uk/employment/index.php

Cadets join forces to celebrate

AIR Cadets from Cambridge, Newmarket, Sawston, Ely, Linton, Haverhill and Oakington joined forces to parade through Newmarket to commemorate the 70th Anniversary of the Air Training Corps. The parade was led by the band of 104 (City of Cambridge) Squadron and consisted of more than 100 cadets and staff from the seven local squadrons. Marching down the High Street, the salute was taken by Squadron Leader Tim Brain who is in charge of the units. The parade then made its way to All Saints Church for a service led by Newmarket's squadron chaplain and with music provided by the Newmarket Town Band. Following the parade Sqn Ldr Brain said that he was "very impressed by the number of cadets on parade and proud of their very smart turnout". The Air Cadets operate right across the country to provide teenagers with a wide range of activities.

The group is currently looking for adult recruits from the age of 20 and up to volunteer and help out the staff team in the area.

Call the local area wing headquarters on (01223) 210954 for more information.

Pain at the pumps as petrol prices increase

BY John Downing

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PETROL prices are rising at a penny a litre each week, sparking fears the price may reach £1.

Prices in forecourts in our region have been rising since early January and one outlet, Melbourn Garage, is charging 99p a litre for unleaded. Only a handful of garages are selling petrol for less than 90p a litre and most are charging between 90p and 94p.

Motorists feeling the effects of the recession are seeing prices creep up despite lower oil prices, because of the falling value of the pound.

The average price in January was 90.48p, according to analysts at Experian Catalist, but there are fears the price is heading back towards £1 a litre.

There are calls for the Government to suspend its already delayed plans for a 1.8p per litre rise in duty in April.

John Bridge, chief executive of Cambridgeshire Chambers of Commerce, said: "The key thing we are finding is that the rhetoric of the Government and what it is doing in practice is totally opposite. What they are doing is increasing the costs to businesses.

"It is madness to put up fuel duty. Anything that increases costs to businesses and individuals at this time should be avoided."

■ NOT AGAIN... petrol prices in the region are creeping up towards the £1 a litre mark.

Graphic: Manwai Wong.

He said that falls in the price of oil were more than cancelled out by the exchange rate between the increasingly weak pound after a series of interest rate cuts and the strengthening dollar.

He said retailers were "quick to increase but not so quick to decrease" prices in response to changes in the oil prices and exchange rates.

John Franklin, RAC spokesman, said: "We have noticed the price of petrol going up a penny a week since the start of the year. While it's nowhere near the excessive heights of last year it is steadily going towards £1 a litre.

"From a motorist's point of view it is very worrying, especially as inflation is coming down."

The price of crude oil is now about 40 per cent lower than the last time petrol cost 90p a litre, in March 2007, according to the AA. Oil prices have tumbled by more than $110 a barrel since July last year.

The AA says it has been receiving calls from drivers asking why prices are rising.

Edmund King, the AA's president, said: "There may be perfectly valid reasons for the current price rises, but a repetition of last year's behaviour should not be happening when family finances are dire."

The country's largest supermarkets sparked a price war last October and average petrol prices fell 6.5p in a month.

But conflict in Gaza and the dispute between Russia and the Ukraine have been cited as factors that pushed up the oil price and the weakening pound has contributed to higher import prices.

Credit crunch clinic for firms

A CREDIT crunch clinic and open networking event for businesses will be staged on Tuesday.

The event, organised Haverhill Chamber of Commerce and Industry, is aimed at helping businesses in the town get to know each other better.

Sarah Howard, who chairs the chamber, said: "This event was originally planned for members to showcase their businesses but as we all face increasingly difficult times, we felt that it would also be a great opportunity to access help and advice from business support services.

"We are therefore very pleased to welcome Suffolk Chamber, the East of England Development Agency and Business Link to the event."

The session will be staged at Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College at 6pm and is open to members and visitors.

For booking details contact the chamber administrator Kate Anstee on (01799) 668132 or email kateanstee@haverhillchamber.co.uk

Relive the skiffle days

TOM Horton will be the guest of the Haverhill Keyboard Club at the Haverhill Arts Centre next Tuesday at 7.30pm.

Tom began his musical career at a young age and is now one of the country's top professional organists. ■ Re-live the roots of British rock music at the arts centre with Paul Leegan and the Legends in Putting on the Style on Friday, February 27, at 7.30pm. Skiffle, a fusion of blues, folk, country and jazz became a musical revolution that influenced rock stars such as The Beatles, The Rolling Stones, Joe Brown and Van Morrison. Paul Leegan celebrates the great country blues artists from the skiffle period of the 1950s.

■ Animated modern fairytale, The Tale of Despereaux (U), is showing for the final time at the arts centre tomorrow at 10.30am, followed by the Madagascar: Escape 2 Africa (PG) at 2.30pm.

■ The second showing of The Secret Life of Bees (12A) takes place at the arts centre on Thursday, February 26 at 7.45pm. Lily, a young white girl and a black woman hired by Lily's abusive father run away from their home town and end up living with the three Boatwright sisters on their honey farm.

Rasta man kicks off literary showcase

BENJAMIN Zephaniah heads the line-up at the Words around the World Literature Festival in Saffron Walden next week.

The globally-acclaimed and globally-conscious Rasta poet – recently named by The Times as one of the 50 most influential writers since the Second World War – is just one of an eclectic line-up of guests at the event. Other highlights include award-winning novelists Jojo Moyes and Marion Molteno, travel writers Hugh Thomson and Jane

Wilson-Howarth, Richard Fortey, an expert from the Natural History Museum, Sandra Smith, the translator of the worldwide bestseller, Suite Française, and actress Carole Carpenter, who will give a one-woman performance of Jane Austen's little-known History of England. The festival runs from February 26 until March 27 at venues across Saffron Walden. For tickets and information, call 01799 523456 or www.harts-events.co.uk

Big names to get us through tough times

By Paul Kirkley

WHEN the going gets tough, the tough keep going.

That's clearly Billy Ocean's philosophy, as "the biggest black recording star Britain has ever produced" (according to his PR blurb, anyway) comes to the Cambridge Corn Exchange on Saturday, performing hits from a career that has seen him sell 30 million records worldwide. Fans of Barbara Dickson and Elaine Paige's number one weepie I Know Him So Well will be pleased to see both ladies in action at the Corn Exchange next month, albeit nine days apart (which makes a duet potentially tricky). Babs is in town on March 3, with Elaine following on the 12th.

Country folk veterans America ride into town on A Horse With No Name (okay, a tourbus) to play the Corn Ex on March 24, and there's more classic Americana – albeit of an ersatz variety – courtesy of The Illegal Eagles on the 28th. Fame Academy alumnus Lemar brings his smooth soul shtick to the same venue on April 6, with support from X Factor runners-up ■ LEGEND ... Morrissey will be among the big names heading for Cambridge in the next few months.

JLS (scream, faint, etc). He's followed by the crazy hats and MOBO award-winning hip hop of N-Dubz on April 14, while crusty rabble-rousers The Levellers recreate the spirit of The Putney Debates – with Garfy from Birds of a Feather on keyboards – on the 22nd.

March 31 sees truculent indie godfather Mark E Smith and The Fall in Cambridge for a gig at The Junction, followed the next day by The Blockheads, sadly now minus the late Ian Dury, and, on April 7, anthemic indie faves – and Hollyoaks soundtrack mainstays – Starsailor.

Brighton's Natasha Khan, aka Bat For Lashes, brings her twisted folk pop to The Junction on April 13. Thin Lizzy guitar hero Gary Moore will serve up some grizzled blues-rock licks at the Corn Exchange on April 25 and, on April 28, pop pointdexter Lloyd Cole will be causing a commotion at The Junction.

And, lest we forget, on May 25, the Corn Exchange stage will be graced by none other than foul-tempered, generously quipped, bona-fide rock legend – legend, I tells yer – Morrissey. That's if he's still performing, of course: Moz recently threatened to retire at 50, and he's due to reach that milestone three days before his arrival in Cambridge. A case of stop me if you've heard this one before, methinks...

School days

CULT musical The Big Book For Girls comes to the ADC Theatre in Cambridge for the late show this week.

The innuendo-filled comedy pastiche of 1930s boarding school stories follows a group of schoolgirls as they develop crushes on their teachers, have midnight feasts and welcome a new arrival.

The show is on at 11pm until Saturday. Tickets are £4-£6. Call (01223) 300085 or visit www.adctheatre.com

New Suits

THE ADC Theatre's new space, The Larkum Studio, will showcase local playwright Adam Hollingworth's new play, Suits of Solemn Black.

The Pembroke Players portray the family of a self-made entrepreneur and patriarch who dies, leaving them to come to terms with the impact he has had on their lives.

The show runs at the Cambridge theatre until Saturday at 10pm. Tickets are £4-£6. To book call (01223) 300085 or visit www.adctheatre.com

Wood Babes

SUGABABES have announced a date in Thetford Forest this summer.

The all-conquering pop trio will appear on July 11 as part of the Forestry Commission's annual series of outdoor music shows.

Tickets are £28 and go on sale from 9am tomorrow. Call 01842 814612 or go to www.forestry.gov.uk/music

The Traditional Way to sell a Property

Get Estate Agents to value it and put it on the market.

Show people around the property.
(Mostly "Nosy Parkers" & Sightseers)

If no offers received after 2 or 3 months, reduce price.

Show more people around.

Eventually accept an offer at between 5 & 10% off the advertised price.

Hope the sale doesn't fall through.
(Over 30% of sales don't reach completion).

Once price agreed, wait a further 3 months for sale to complete.

Work out how many £,000's it has cost you in reducing the price, making mortgage payments, paying Estate Agents fee's and Legal fee's since you started the process (on average, 7 months ago...)

'Aye i' is verdict on Hyundai i20

WITH all the turmoil in the economy, when it comes to buying a new car sensible is the new black.

Sensible can mean many things to many different people, though. Appearance, equipment levels, running costs, driving characteristics and – obviously – price, are all valid suggestions. But even when times were good, finding all those attributes in one car was a tough task.

So thank goodness for Hyundai – the Korean firm's rise has everything to do with reading the market and delivering cars that people would want to buy. A novel concept I know, but it's one that a surprising number of makers have failed to fully understand.

And as sure as night follows day and the i10 followed the i30, Hyundai's latest offering is the i20, a car that conveniently fills the gap between its city car and family hatch cousins respectably.

Hyundai might be pitching the i20 as a supermini but the car is more than capable of accommodating the needs of a growing family – the i20 doesn't appear to be a compromise. Everything about the car either matches or exceeds your expectations.

Priced at a little over £8,000, the car maker's small offering is a five-door hatch boasting familiar styling cues to its larger and smaller relatives. The car's nose, its smooth curves, gently sloping roof and clean, fuss-free tailgate complete an attractive and practical package.

Under the bonnet is a choice of 1.2 and 1.4-litre petrol engines (77 and 99bhp respectively), plus a 1.4 diesel offering a choice of 74 and 89bhp. For those with a need to know, both diesels duck under the magic 120g/km CO2 barrier. The petrol engines emit 124 and 133g/km respectively.

The good news is that, so long as you're an undemanding sort, the 1.2 option will be more than adequate for all but the toughest of tasks. Quiet at motorway speeds yet able to keep up with traffic, the 1.2-litre tiddler zings around town without complaint.

With its spacious cabin – there's even plenty of room in the back for a well-fed adult or two – practicality is a high-ranking attribute. Ditto for refinement, be it the car's supple ride, good levels of sound insulation, the quality of the cabin materials and the operation of the various controls and displays.

It's worth noting that, despite the car's asking price, the overall experience is comparable to one costing a darn sight more. Hyundai has done a good job of balancing the notoriously tricky price-versus-standard-equipment situation. Entry-level Classic trim buyers get to sample the likes of driver, passenger, side and curtain airbags, aircon, electric front windows, radio/CD player (plus an aux socket), adjustable steering column and seat height adjustment for the driver.

Move up to the middle Comfort model and you can add alloy wheels, electric rear windows, iPod and USB ports for the audio unit plus six speakers, powered and heated door mirrors and a trip computer. Topping the range is the Style model, which adds the likes of a metal-look fascia, leather seat facings, front fog lamps, leather steering wheel and gear knob and climate control.

■ THE HYUNDAI i20... when sensible doesn't have to mean dull.

You've got to agree that such a haul of kit is an embarrassment of riches in this sector of the market – certainly when you cast your gaze across to the mainstream European opposition. And it gets better; a five year unlimited mileage warranty. Talk about a sensible approach to motoring.

Basically

With the i20, Hyundai has shown that sensible doesn't have to mean dull.

■ CHEAP TO RUN ... with 64.2mpg.

The Suzuki Alto is the greenest petrol family car you can buy

WHEN the new Suzuki Alto goes on sale in the UK on March 1, it will stake its claim as being the lowest emitting five-door petrol family car on the market.

The Alto is the fifth global model in Suzuki's line-up and is powered by a three-cylinder 67bhp 1.0-litre engine producing just 103g/km of CO2.

The Alto will be the fourth Suzuki model to have emissions cut under the 120g/km barrier.

With prices starting at £6,795 coupled with an impressive combined fuel consumption of 64.2mpg and £35 annual road tax, the stylish Alto is set to be an attractive prospect for buyers.

Commenting on the new Alto, David Seward, director of sales and marketing, Suzuki GB, explains: "There has always been a continued drive by Suzuki to offer fun and exciting products combined with value for money, and the Alto is no different. Furthermore, being able to offer such an environmentally-friendly petrol engine is a rare proposition."

A great time to buy a used car

THE price of a used car is lower now than it has been for a very long time.

This situation offers car buyers the chance of a lifetime to nab their dream motor at an affordable price – but, warns the leading vehicle information organisation HPI, anyone thinking about grabbing a used car bargain should act quickly to benefit from the current great deals on offer, because they are unlikely to last for too much longer. The latest HPI Used Car Valuations Index reveals that used car prices are beginning to creep up.

Martin Keighley, HPI's Used Car Valuations expert explains: "Overall, in the trade, we are seeing that some types of vehicles are showing signs of improved confidence, with the city, supermini and small car types leading the charge. We are also seeing that some luxury and 4x4 petrol models are showing signs of perking up. For the man on the street, this means that the value of these cars is on the rise, albeit they currently still represent an extremely attractive buy."

The HPI Used Car Valuations Index saw month-on-month residual values rise for December to January for all 12 and 36 month old cars. While those in the trade will not be surprised by this trend, which is usual for this time of year, knowledgeable buyers would be advised not to hang around whilst prices remain so low.

"Buyers are continuing to look for good condition, sensible mileage models, but demand means the most popular vehicles are getting thin on the ground. This is why in some cases, people need to act quick," continues Martin Keighley. "However, the massive used car price reductions that we have seen over the last year, combined with falling fuel prices, means some larger vehicles are looking very cheap indeed to buy and run."

Confirming that used car values still have some way to go before reach the higher prices we were accustomed to, year-on-year used car values continue to depreciate. The fall increased by 1.0 per cent to -28.1 per cent for all cars at 12 months and 0.8 per cent to -33.9 per cent for all cars at 36 months. Interestingly, the 12 and 36 month petrol sector saw values stabilize for the first time in many months.

Martin Keighley concludes: "Job losses continue to hit the headlines and many of us are worried whether we will be in work this time next year. But on the other hand, some people are now paying less for their mortgage, fuel, food and clothes. This means they haven't had this much disposable income for a while and for those of you in this position, now is the time to bag yourself a used car bargain, just move quickly as good quality stock is getting scarce."

It's what's inside that counts

BODY styling may once have been the big draw for most car buyers, but today it's what you can't see in a set of wheels that is becoming increasingly crucial to showroom sales.

Safety, for example, is now paramount. But, apart from seatbelts, headrests, and the odd airbag deactivation switch, little of the extensive protection systems found in new models is on display.

The same goes for a car's climate-friendly credentials. These are improving with every new model launch, but it's largely a case of taking the manufacturer's word for it all, as all these green elements are not exactly visible.

It is interesting that more and more makers – Seat among the latest – are starting to put these feats of "invisible engineering" atop their list of selling points.

Seat has the revised Leon hatchback and Altea people carrier on sale in Britain this summer, but the subtle design tweaks take a definite back seat to the raft of new technology that comes with them. The Leon, the firm's big-selling compact family hatchback, and Altea, a popular five-seater MPV, get fresh faces, aimed at making these cars more recognisable as belonging to the Seat family.

Both ranges get smoother, more elegant lines, a new grille with a smaller Seat logo, larger headlights, new door mirrors, and new wheel designs.

But engineers at Seat's Martorell Technical Centre near Barcelona, in Spain, have built in more substantial improvements under the Leon and Altea skins, giving both considerable mechanical upgrades.

Standard on some models comes a new, cutting-edge electronic traction control technology, called XDS. It mimics the function of a conventional limited slip differential, but does so without the costly and heavy mechanicals associated with such systems.

XDS works with the electronic stability programme (ESP) to improve the cars' performance in situations where traction is lost by braking the wheel that loses grip.

Other active safety measures on offer with these models include anti-lock brakes, traction control, and electronic emergency braking assistance. In addition Seat's broad engine range in the new Leon and Altea, five petrol and five diesel, have all undergone a significant evolution with the emphasis split between improved performance and cutting fuel use and emissions.

UK pricing and full specification details for the revised Leon, Altea, and Altea XL line-ups will be released closer to the models' showroom debut this summer.

The new cars will be making their world debut at the Geneva Motor Show in Switzerland next month, and, in acknowledging the public's perception of what a car must now offer, Seat UK's marketing chief Steve Robertson, says: "These subtle design changes, allied to the significant engineering and equipment improvements, come at the perfect time."

UK pricing and full specification details for Seat's revised Leon and Altea line-ups will be released closer to the models' UK showroom debut this summer.

for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF)

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility.

We pay up to £100

- Management of facility stores, including scheduling of deliveries and maintenance of contingency supplies.
- Close liaison with campus engineering department and basic maintenance of automated systems.
- 24-hour call-out duties for equipment and building management system alarms (on a rota).

Applicants must have a minimum of 5GCSEs (or equivalent qualification) at grade A-C including Maths and English and hold ONC or A-levels in relevant subjects or trade-trained in engineering/robotic systems. Previous experience in staff management and basic IT skills are essential. Excellent communication and organisational skills are also required as the job involves a great deal of communication with staff in various disciplines. The ideal candidate will preferably have previous experience of working with robotic systems, chemical sterilisers and autoclaves as well as a basic awareness of health and safety legislation; however, these are not essential and full training will be given if required. Experience in a similar research environment would be desirable. Candidates must be self-motivated and able to successfully lead a team providing an efficient and effective service. The successful applicant will be encouraged and sponsored to gain further qualifications relevant to the post.

Starting salary will be according to qualifications and experience. Benefits include pension scheme. Application forms and further details are available electronically from our website (www.babraham.ac.uk), or by contacting our 24-hour Recruitment Line on 01223 496365, or e-mail: babraham.personnel@bbsrc.ac.uk quoting reference CSM/P. Assistant Director for Highways

Foundation East*Chair of the Board

Appointed after the summer of 2009.

Foundation East (FE) is a not-for-profit mutual society operating in the East of England which vigorously promotes social inclusion by providing affordable loans to businesses and individuals. FE is also an active Community Land Trust, providing local communities with access to and benefit from property which it owns.

Operating for nearly five years, FE has made a real difference to businesses, communities and individuals. Over the next five years the Society needs to develop to a position of sustainability and to increase and broaden its membership.

You will: ● know the Eastern region well ● be able to network and promote FE to government, the private sector, communities and the third sector ● be able to lead a Board of twelve, working closely with the Chief Executive.

FE is a membership organisation and you would be required to become a Member. At present the position is voluntary and could involve up to one day a week. Reasonable expenses are paid. From September 2009 FE is looking to make an annual payment for this position, subject to negotiation and the approval of the Society.

FE would like to hear from you if you meet the above requirements, share its vision and believe you could gain satisfaction from leading the Society to make a significant contribution to financial and social inclusion in the region.

If you would like to speak to the present Chair of the Board about the position, please call (01284) 75777. Further information, including a job description can be found on FE's website: www.foundationeast.org For an application pack contact the number above or visit the website. Closing date: 10 March 2009.

Middle's triple leads way

Chesterton Eagles U11 2
Haverhill Rovers U11 12

CAMBS & DIST COLTS LEAGUE KO CUP, QUARTER-FINAL

ON a heavy pitch, Rovers got off to a great start with winger Jack Trowbridge scoring first from close range to put them into an early lead.

Within minutes of the restart the visitors were two goals to the good with midfielder Tom Middle netting his first of the game.

Rovers quickly moved into a three-goal lead with Alex Carter chipping the ball over Eagles' keeper.

Chesterton responded with a goal to make it 3-1, but Rovers resumed their free-scoring ways with Middle netting his second.

Rovers had the lion's share of possession, with Carter getting on the scoresheet again.

The first-half scoring was rounded off with an Eagles' own goal, while Rovers' striker Will Bailey nabbed brace a of goals to leave the his side well in control at half time.

After a Rovers' reshuffle, the second half resumed with the Eagles coming out of the blocks quickest and scoring.

Poor marking allowed the visitors to make it 3-3 before Rovers then decided to wake up and create some good chances themselves.

With four minutes to go, Rovers' pressure paid off when Lewis fired through a crowd of players to make it 4-3.

Plantation U10 B 2
Grampian Gunners U10 A 2

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, DIVISION 10A
GUNNERS dropped points in a game they dominated from start to finish.

Within minutes of the start they created good chances, but they were missed by Westley, Grace and Woodley before Plantation had a shot against the bar.

Gunners pushed forward again, but were denied by the Plantation keeper.

As Gunners were piling players forward, a mistake let in Plantation to score.

As half time approached, Gunners levelled with a strike from Fletcher.

The second half saw Gunners' Farrow, Thompson and Beeston miss chances before Robson shot home for the lead.

Straight from the restart, Plantation caused Gunners to concede an own goal to bring the scores level again.

Haverhill Rovers U16 4
Newmarket Town U16 B 3

CAMBRIDGE & DIST COLTS LEAGUE, DIVISION 16C
ROVERS started the better and, after 10 minutes, a corner taken by Bavester was met by Goff to give the keeper no chance.

Five minutes later Wyatt scored the first of two with a fine shot from just inside the box.

Just before half time, Wyatt got his second after some great work from Ashcroft and Pearson. The second half was a different story as Newmarket came to life and put the pressure on Rovers defence.

A mistake by Rovers' keeper saw Newmarket pull back to 3-1.

And, when a nervous Rovers' defence did not clear their lines, Newmarket made it 3-2.

■ SURGING RUN ... Haverhill U14s' Dylan Naude breaks with ball from the ruck during his team's match with Newmarket.

CP.

Jones' boys show superb spirit

HAVERHILL II made favourites Shelford IV work hard for their 29-10 League Plate victory. Ben Jones, the Haverhill skipper, managed to pull together a mix of young rookies, clubmen and seasoned veterans, but unable to fill two front-row positions, which Shelford sportingly filled. It took Shelford 15 minutes to put points on the board after Haverhill soaked up pressure in their own 22, clearing on numerous occasions. Two more home tries followed in the next 10 minutes, but Haverhill were finding their game and some good breakdown play from flanker Kez Ewens was making the ball available to Simon Lester at scrum-half, who in turn was feeding veteran Scot Andy Carr to pop the ball to rookie Nick Morgan, who repeatedly broke through with brilliant runs. The first half finished 15-0, but Jones had little problem keeping his team positive at the interval talk. Injuries to Terry Pinkney and Dave Halsey meant scrums became uncontested, which helped Haverhill when Jones laid off to Ian Flannery, who was stopped two metres short of scoring. Finally a Haverhill try came when, in a moment of individual genius, Carr sprang to intercept a pass then sprint 20 metres to score. Further tries each came from uncontested scrums as both sets of flankers and No 8s started to enjoy their freedom. Flannery scoring Haverhill's, with assistance from Martin Ransome. By the final whistle Shelford had managed another similar try but were made to work for it by the young Haverhill defence. ■ Haverhill U14 went down 22-5 at home to their Newmarket counterparts on Sunday. Newmarket made Haverhill defend for the opening 10 minutes before the tables were turned as the home side began to press up, resulting in a George Foley try. Newmarket replied two minutes later with a try. Haverhill lost Callum Fletcher-Brown to injury near the end of the half, but his numerous committed tackles to stop opposition runs were enough to earn him player of the match at the end. The second half started with an immediate Newmarket try to put Haverhill five points behind. The match became scrappy and littered with penalties as both sides struggled to control the game when in possession of the ball. Newmarket finally broke the deadlock with a converted try and, late in the game, they finished Haverhill off with a push over try as the home side ran out of steam and were unable to clear the ball to safety.

Haverhill on the lookout for new blood ...

HAVERHILL Ladies Netball Club are holding trials for their forthcoming summer season. Trials will begin at Linton Village College on Thursday, February 26, from 7.30 until 9pm and continue on March 5. The club currently enters two teams in the West Suffolk League during the summer season, which is played at Thurston. The A team had an unbeaten season last year and won the second division, while the B string won all but one match in taking the third division honours. The club was recently sponsored by Scientific Analysis Laboratories based in Bar Hill, near Cambridge, who donated funds towards the new kit. Anyone wishing to take part in the trials please contact Fiona on 07725 534695 or turn up on the night.

HAVERHILL Rovers were left with a blank week as the bad weather caused the postponement of both their scheduled Ridgeons League, Premier Division matches. The problems started when last Thursday's heavy snowfall led to Rovers' match with Ely City the following evening biting the dust. It was particularly annoying for the club as there was due to be free admission and a big crowd was expected. In fact, conditions at Hamlet Croft were so bad the club had to scrap plans for a race night that was due to take place after the match. Rovers' bid to climb away from the foot of the table suffered another hitch when their match at Wivenhoe on Tuesday evening fell victim to a waterlogged pitch. The match against Ely has been rearranged for Tuesday evening, but manager Peter Betts and his Haverhill players are without a fixture on Saturday due to the withdrawal of scheduled opponents Whitton United from the league.

TABLE TENNIS

Honours even for strugglers

HAVERHILL III drew 5-5 with fellow strugglers CIBA in Division Three of the Cambridge & District League. In the same division, Fulbourn beat Soham III 7-3, with Ju Young recording a maximum for the winners. St Ives V thrashed NCI IV 10-0 and are now favourites for promotion from Division Four, although Impington IV's 9-1 success against St Ives VI also keeps them in the hunt. Impington V and NCI IV played out a creditable draw with all players on the scoresheet. Results – Division One: RCG Stapleford 7 Over 3, Impington 8 RCG Stapleford 2, St Ives II 6 Soham 4, Soham 9 Cambridge 1. Division Two: Soham II 10 NCI III 0, St Georges III 2 St Neots 8, NCI III 7 Cambridge III 3, St Georges II 8 RCG Stapleford II 2. Division Three: Haverhill III 5 CIBA 5, Fulbourn 7 Soham III 3. Division Four: St Ives V 10 NCI IV 0, Impington V 5 NCI IV 5, St Ives VI 1 Impington IV 9.

RUGBY UNION

Bad day topped by Bath's injury

HAVERHILL suffered the ignominy of becoming the first team to lose to Lakenham Hewett this season after going down in Eastern Counties Two.

But the result does not tell the whole of the story in a match, which at one point saw Haverhill down to 12 men.

The hosts went ahead through

Lakenham Hewett 18 Haverhill 13
EASTERN COUNTIES LEAGUE, DIVISION TWO

a penalty before Kieron Ewans' kick levelled matters, but the Norfolk side went back in front with a try.

Ryan Raffell's converted score put Haverhill 10-8 ahead, a scoreline extended by half time through another Ewans' penalty.

But the second half descended into chaos, with Haverhill having three men sin-binned, and then, with an already depleted team, the match was stopped for 25 minutes as Andy Bath suffered a broken arm and dislocated shoulder.

And Hewett were able to add the second-half points that clinched the win.

"We were dragged down to their level and if we were more switched on to what was going on around us we would have had enough about us to win the game," said Haverhill skipper Paul Bergin. "We had allowed ourselves to get distracted by the referee and the way they wanted to play the game."

He added: "It was out of character for the team (the number of sin bins) and we usually consider ourselves to be quite well disciplined."
